

Paws for Healing Volunteer Application Packet

Training Information

Classes

Our training is held over three (3) dates on consecutive Saturdays. The first Saturday class is from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 and will consist of a general introduction to therapy work and to our organization, as well as preparation for the evaluation of your dog, what we will be doing and why. Please do not bring your dog on this day. The second Saturday will be dog evaluation day. You will be given an appointment for the evaluation so you will know when to bring your dog to be evaluated and to have your team photo taken, get your dog measured for his/her uniform, etc. The third Saturday will be class room instruction for those that have passed the evaluation. It will start at 9:30 a.m. and should be completed by 3:00.

If you wish to attend, the attached forms must be completed in their entirety. You may use PayPal to pay for registration. A confirmation will be sent to you within three weeks after receipt with directions and information regarding the class. Paws for Healing reserves the right to refuse participation after a complete review by our Application Committee. In order to be able to receive email responses for information and/or class training acknowledgments, please add a contact name to your email address book "Paws for Healing" with the email address: info@pawsforhealing.org. Also check your emails spam or junk folder for email from info@pawsforhealing.org.

Canine Certification Requirements

- All dogs must have resided in the applicant's household for a minimum of six (6) months prior to evaluation.
- Dogs must be a minimum of one (1) year old.
- In order for a canine team to pass the evaluation, the dog must pass each of the seven (7) evaluation categories. The categories are: (1) friendly stranger, (2) food on the floor, (3) negotiating a tight space, (4) skin and tail grab, (5) medical equipment encounter, (6) loud noise, (7) odd stranger.
- Any dog that eliminates/voids or shows aggression (growl, snap, bite, attack or attempts to bite or attack any person or dog) during the evaluation may not qualify for the program.
- Dogs will be handled humanely. Any handler who displays inhumane conduct or who is observed to kick, strike or otherwise roughly manhandle a canine at any time during the evaluation will be dismissed.
- Handlers must be able to control their dogs at all times. Any individual deemed by the evaluator(s) to be unable to satisfactorily maintain control of their dog will not qualify for the program.

If your dog does not pass the first temperament evaluation:

Should a canine fail the temperament evaluation he/she can be re-evaluated after appropriate training at our next training or within the next six (6) months. Handlers may be excused from the third consecutive Saturday until the dog has successfully completed a re-evaluation at which time they will attend our next third Saturday session. Should a canine fail to meet the requirements for a second time, the canine may not be considered for our program and all funds will be refunded.

Collars, Leashes and Uniforms

All dogs should wear well-fitting collars of either leather or fabric. Choke chains, prong collars and gentle leaders are NOT permitted during the evaluation or on therapy visits. The leash must be either leather or fabric. No chain leashes and absolutely NO retractable leashes are allowed. Four (4) foot or six (6) foot leash lengths are acceptable. A four (4) foot leash is preferred. Dogs to be evaluated must be brushed, clean, and free of odor and fleas. Any post-surgical dog must have a veterinarian's approval to attend.

Certified dogs will be required to wear a Paws for Healing uniform when performing Canine-Assisted Therapy visits. Most facilities require our volunteers to wear some form of organization identification and a Paws for Healing shirt as a minimum. We have available polo shirts and vests for both men and women.

Canine and Handler Evaluation

Grooming and Cleanliness

During this process, our trainers and assistants will examine your dog's eyes, ears, teeth, breath, coat, skin, paws, pads, and nails.

WHY? Therapy dogs should be clean and well groomed. This demonstrates the owner's sense of responsibility for the dog's appearance.

All-Over Body Handling

During the check for grooming, your dog will be touched all over – head, ears, body, feet, tail, etc.

WHY? Therapy dogs work in situations where they may be touched all over by strangers. Tolerance to touch is a basic prerequisite for being a certified therapy dog.

Good Canine Manners and Basic Handling Skills

During the evaluation, you will be asked to demonstrate basic handling skills with your dog on leash. As the handler, you will be evaluated for your ability to be mindful of your dog's presence and behavior at all times. Use of your voice, treats, and the leash (on a flat collar, only), are all acceptable methods of providing control.

WHY? Good manners are required of a certified therapy dog. Your effective handling skills will help influence the dog's behavior. Reinforcing the dog's good behavior, using positive interventions, and encouraging positive interactions with our "patients" are all part of a handler's responsibilities.

Distractions in the environment

These may include food on the floor (which, during the evaluation, will be considered "poison"). The handler should be able to redirect the dog's attention by using a "Leave it!" command or something similar. Loud noises, and/or the sudden opening of an umbrella will be incorporated in the evaluation process. Persons with a shuffling gait, exaggerated motions, a loud or emotional voice, may simulate an "odd" or infirmed stranger or the actions of children.

WHY? These parts of the evaluation are used to screen the handler's awareness of the environment while handling his/her dog. Food or medicine on the floor may occur in a health care environment or kids often have snacks or lunches with them in school settings. Loud noises or the opening of the umbrella may surprise or startle a dog but should not be so startling that they panic, run or show aggressiveness. Children can also act unpredictably and scream or shout. We look for a quick "recovery" from such surprises and how you help your dog recover from such events. The exposure to these situations helps us evaluate your dog's confidence as well as your ability

Confined Spaces

Typically, we will set up a hospital bed setting in a small area, where the handler will have to carefully maneuver the dog, sit down and visit with our "patient."

WHY? Your handling skills are important here, as well as your ability to communicate the purpose of your visit with our "patient." Remember to introduce yourself by name and as being from Paws for Healing, explain the nature of your "visit," and bring your dog into the room at the patient's bedside. During this visit do not place dog on the bed. In an actual health care environment, a patient may be recovering from surgery, have wounds and/or be using medical equipment such as IV's and monitors. We do encourage you to sit with your dog at your side, or in your lap, while talking with the bedridden "patient." If your dog is a licker or kisser, please know how to control this behavior as some facilities and some patients do not want to be licked or kissed.

Exposure to Medical Equipment

The evaluation will include the use of wheelchairs, walkers, canes or crutches.

WHY? Medical equipment is often encountered in the environments where therapy dogs work. The equipment must not be so distracting or disturbing to the dog that he refuses to engage with the "patient." The dog must not show any aggressiveness or be overly fearful when around such equipment.

Please Remember

You and your dog are a team! When certified, you will be working together to benefit the lives of real patients, students, and others in hospitals, schools, libraries and institutions. If you and/or your dog do not pass this evaluation the first time, you will have an opportunity to join obedience classes, or work one-on-one with a trainer to improve your chances of passing in the future.

If you have any questions about any of the situations described above, please contact Nanci Caron at 707-253-0313.

Thank you from the Evaluation Team at Paws for Healing!
